

Research in to Ancient Maya ruins

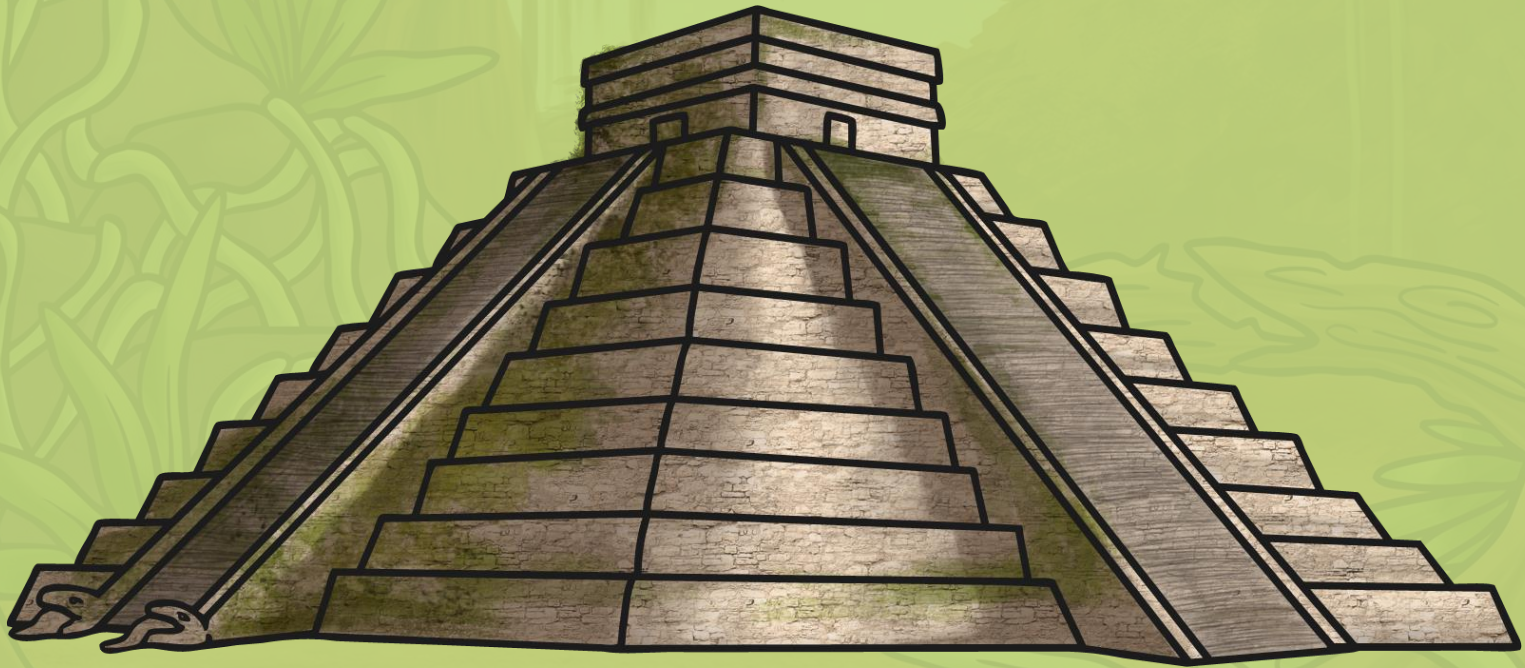

This is an informative PowerPoint about Chichen Itza. Using this PowerPoint and the video clip, find out as many interesting facts as you can and make notes about them. You will use this research in your English lessons next week. If you would prefer to find out about a different site, feel free to find your own sources of information, there are some ideas on the following slide if you need them.

Ancient Maya Ruins

- Chichen Itza Maya Ruins
- Coastal Ruins Of Tulum
- Maya Ruins Of Coba
- Palenque
- Calakmul Maya Ruins
- Monte Alban
- Teotihuacan
- Uxmal Ruins
- Edzna
- El Rey
- Chacchoben
- Templo Mayor
- Izamal
- El Meco
- Ek Balam

Chichen Itza

An informative PowerPoint about Chichen Itza

Chichen Itza means 'at the mouth of the well of Itza'

The Kukulkan Pyramid in Chichen-Itza which known as “El Castillo” (the castle)

Photo courtesy of D-Stanley (@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence - attribution

El Castillo is almost 23 metres tall.

It was built very precisely for astronomy and at a certain time and date, twice a year (March and September), the sun causes shadows to fall in a very specific way.

A 33 metre long snake appears, and as the shadows move it creeps down the steps until it reaches the huge serpents head carved in stone at the bottom.

Photo courtesy of tristan and Alaskan Dude(@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence - attribution

Chichen Itza is full of beautiful stone carvings that can be seen on all sorts of buildings, structures and statues.

Photo courtesy of kelly.sikkema\(@flickr.com\) - granted under creative commons licence - attribution

Photo courtesy of ex_magician\(@flickr.com\) - granted under creative commons licence - attribution

Photo courtesy of pas cal (@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence - attribution

Photo courtesy of redeo(@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence - attribution

Photo courtesy of Pascal(@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence - attribution